Riverside Five Years After Tyisha Miller Shooting

The Black Voice News

RIVERSIDE

Tyisha Miller

By Mary Shelton

Most residents of Riverside were asleep in their beds and did not hear the gunshots which ripped through the chilled air at a gas station on the corner of Brockton and Central on Dec. 28, 1998. Within hours, everyone would learn of the tragic shooting of Tyisha Miller that would rock the foundations of Riverside, from its City Hall, to its police department, to its neighborhoods and streets.

Within days, community members came together from all walks of life to march for justice through the streets of Riverside and continued to march through all its seasons. Twenty protesters were prosecuted in the criminal justice system, ever mindful of the irony that they, and not those four officers who pulled the trigger, were pursued so vigorously by the Riverside County District Attorney's office.

Five years later, efforts still continue to push Riverside and its police department towards a better future than what had served as prologue to a tragedy. The department continues to work its way through a five-year stipulated agreement it entered into with the state's attorney general's office in 2001. While many city officials view the required reforms as a list to be checked off one by one in order to close the book on one of the city's most tragic episodes, other people view the consent decree as only the beginning in a long and difficult journey to change the patterns and practices of an institution long steeped by racism.

Improving training methods and updating equipment is only one small step in fixing a department which has been plagued by years of racism and sexism within its ranks, where jokes and slurs began as a rite of passage for newer officers and became deeply entrenched attitudes which were passed on from one generation to the next. The much harder task that still remains is to change the mindset of those who work within this agency and interface with our communities.

reform, but there were some genuine rays of hope this year.

The community watched with pride as Jim Cannon became the second African-American to be promoted to captain, and then concern, when it became clear that the department still had problems in terms of welcoming people of color into its highest levels of command after several White lieutenants grumbled in protest. However, Chief Russ Leach stood firm in his decision to promote Cannon and the department took an important step forward. Dave Dominguez became the highest ranking Hispanic officer in the department when he was promoted to deputy chief, after Audrey Wilson retired. According to depositions filed in a racial discrimination case involving an officer in the agency, Wilson had made life very difficult for several men of

Riverside County Sheriff Reaches out to Community

The Black Voice News

RIVERSIDE

By José Pérez

When Bob Doyle was sworn in as Riverside County's new sheriff, many observers saw it as the culmination of a long and accomplished career in law enforcement. For Doyle, a lifelong resident of Riverside County, the new post marked the beginning of a new chapter in his personal desire to see a more harmonious relationship develop between the community he was born and raised in and the department that he has spent his entire adulthood working for.

"I am a strong believer in relationships," said Doyle.

Fostering, building, and enhancing the relationships between any police department and the community it serves is always a daunting and tricky challenge. Doing so in Riverside County, California will have to involve something other than tricks. The history of tension and tragedy between the department and the community — especially the minority community — was already long and sad when the gut-wrenching death of Tyisha Miller shocked many.

Effecting a change on a well-entrenched institutional culture is never easy but Doyle figures that he has some advantages that others may not have had in similar situations in other agencies. He has spent virtually his entire adult life working for the sheriff's department and he has lived his entire life in Riverside County as a resident. Moreover, he sees his biggest advantage in very plain terms: he wants to make it happen. He stated "I am dedicated to doing everything I can ... I think it is important."

"I want to truly partner with the community," said the veteran cop. "Helping each other to understand each other and being open" is important, according to Doyle.

How does he plan to achieve

Deputy Joe Quintero is in his 11th year with the Sheriff's Department. He has quite a passion and is extremely fervent about working with kids and young adults.

His career began when he was inspired by his little brother who joined the California Highway Patrol. He too wanted to serve the public, his goal was to become a deputy with the Riverside County Sheriff's Department.

Officer Joe Quintero has a very supportive wife, who is also someone he can depend on when he needs an ear to listen to him after a tough days' work. He has taken great pride in raising his three kids properly and being the best example he can for them. His batting percentage is pretty good with his son in the Navy in Florida, a daughter who just graduated from UCR, and a

Joe entered the academy at twenty-nine years old. He went through a challenging oral process, but did well in spite of it. The background check was not a problem. He thoroughly enjoyed the physical agility aspect of the test. The only challenge area was that he had not utilized his study habits in a long time. He had to re-adjust, and once he did, everything was smooth sailing.

Joe began his career in Court

Have a Merry Merry Christmas

In the sixth month God sent the angel Gabriel to Nazareth, a town in Galilee, to a virgin pledged to marry a man named Joseph, a descendent of David. The virgin's name was Mary and she was told "you are highly favored and the Lord is with you." Gabriel also told her "you will be with child and you are to name him Jesus." Mary was puzzled but the angel reassured her there was no need to worry. Even though this was impossible for Mary to understand she obeyed the angel. The angel went on to paint a picture for Mary that this birth would be originating in heaven by God himself, and the Holy Spirit would overcome her to seal the deal. Gabriel even told her that her relative Elizabeth was going to have a child in her old age. At Elizabeth's age this was impossible but the angel followed this up by saying, "for nothing is impossible with God." He is still telling us today that nothing is impossible with Him. As we celebrate this Christmas let us not forget to give thanks for this glorious gift to mankind.

The story goes on to illustrate the awesomeness of God and this event. He had Caesar Augustus issue a decree that a census should be taken so the entire Roman world would be accounted for. This was the first time a census had been called for by the government. This would force Joseph and Mary to return to Bethlehem, the birth place of Jesus, which had been prophesied many years before the birth of Jesus. They tried to find a room in the hotels but they were all full so Joseph had to take Mary to a stable where she gave birth to Jesus and laid him in a manger after wrapping him in a blanket to keep Him warm. This was no place for a King to be born, however the example is for us to realize it does not matter where you are born, it is what you do after getting here that matters. There were shepherds in the fields nearby watching their flock when angels came to them and told them, today a Savior has been born to you, He is Christ the Lord. The angels told them to follow this bright star that hung over the place where Jesus was born. All of a sudden to the shepherds amazement a heavenly host of angels appeared singing, Glory to God in the Highest, Peace on Earth and Goodwill Toward Men. Then they turned toward one another and said let's go and see this thing which has happened. Are you willing to go and hear of this thing which has happened so long ago? When they saw this birth they spread the word of what had been told them by the angel. Are you telling the story or are you hoping someone else will do that? Once you hear it, it must be retold by you and no one else for no one can tell what you know but you.

Now, just as then, there are forces out there trying to sway us from celebrating our savior's birth by getting our children to focus on other activities? Then it was King Herod who was jealous that another King was born so he wanted to track Him down and have him killed. Today, we have people tracking him down with other holidays, Santa Claus, lights, trees, food and other activities. We do so many things but share the love that was shared to us for a better life.

As we celebrate let us not forget that Jesus is the reason for the season. Have yourself a Merry, Merry Christmas from all of us here at The Black Voice News.

President Bush and the AIDS Crisis: Reneging on a Promise

By Rep. MAXINE WATERS

During his nearly three years in office, President George W. Bush has proven himself to be a master of deception. He has misled us into a war using speculation and lies to justify it. He has misled us into tax cuts for the richest Americans, claiming it would benefit middle-class families. He has misled us into a Medicare reform plan, claiming it will help the poor and the elderly when the bill is in fact a cruel hoax that will only benefit big pharmaceutical and insurance companies.

Now it appears that the President's pledge to provide funds to fight against the HIV/AIDS crisis in the United States and the rest of the world is yet another example of the President's penchant for saying one thing and doing another.

As we observed World AIDS Day earlier this month, there was very little progress to report in the battle to bring the HIV/AIDS epidemic under control. While the rate of HIV infections went down somewhat in a few of the hardest hit areas on the African continent, the virus spread rapidly in Eastern Europe, India and China.

According to the United Nations, more than 3 million people died from AIDS in the past year, adding to a death toll that already stood at more than 20 million people. At least 5 million were infected with the AIDS virus in 2003 to join the 40 million people who were already living with AIDS worldwide. It is estimated that the number of people living with AIDS will escalate to 100 million by the year 2010.

In the United States, the impact of the epidemic has been most severe among minorities. African Americans account for 49 percent of new AIDS cases being reported in the United States, although African Americans represent only 12 percent of the population. African American children account for 65 percent of the pediatric AIDS cases in the U.S.

Black women and Black teenagers have been particularly hard-hit by the AIDS epidemic. Sixty-four percent of the new AIDS cases reported in the U.S. among women affect African American women, and Black teenagers represent 64 percent of the new AIDS cases reported in the U.S. in the 13-19 age group.

The occurrence of AIDS in Hispanic communities is similarly disproportionate. Hispanics account for 19 percent of new AIDS cases in the U.S. although the Hispanic population stands at only 14 percent.

Almost a year ago, in his State of the Union address, President Bush made an encouraging promise to take action on the global AIDS crisis. The President pledged to provide $15 billion for global AIDS programs. The President's pledge resulted in the U.S. Leadership Against HIV/AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria Act, which was passed in Congress and signed by the President. The Act authorized $3 billion per year in funding over the next five years for global AIDS, TB and malaria treatment and prevention programs.

The President's commitment to fund efforts to fight AIDS is apparently just another empty promise. The Director of National AIDS Policy for the Bush Administration has written to Congress at least three times in recent months to try and stop Congress from providing full funding to global AIDS programs. The President proposed only $2 billion for global HIV/AIDS, TB and malaria programs in his budget for fiscal year 2004, even though $3 billion is authorized by law. Anything less than $3 billion in 2004 will constitute a failure to make good on the President's State of the Union promise. Funding for domestic AIDS programs also remains woefully inadequate.

In 1998, when I was chair of the Congressional Black Caucus, I worked with the Clinton Administration to develop the Minority AIDS Initiative. The initiative provides grants to community-based organizations and other health care providers for HIV/AIDS treatment and prevention programs serving the African American, Hispanic, Asian American and Native American communities. The initiative also enables health care providers to expand and strengthen their capacity to deliver culturally and linguistically appropriate care and services.

In fiscal year 2003, the Minority AIDS Initiative received $406 million in funding, but the need is much greater, given the fact that racial minorities now represent a majority of new AIDS cases in the U.S. and a majority of Americans living with AIDS.

On May 9, I sent a letter to the Chairman and Ranking Member of the Congressional Subcommittee on Labor, Health and Human Services and Education Appropriations, urging the Administration to provide $610 million for the Minority AIDS Initiative in fiscal year 2004. The letter was signed by 109 of my colleagues in the House of Representatives. Despite our efforts, the 2004 appropriations bill passed by the House of Representatives earlier this month includes only $403.95 million for the Minority AIDS Initiative, over $2 million less than the amount provided in 2003.

President Bush calls himself a compassionate conservative, but his compassion seems limited to corporate fat cats, while his efforts to conserve come at the expense of middle-class workers, the poor and the elderly. The shortfall in funding for global AIDS programs and the Minority AIDS Initiative is just the latest illustration of the enormous gap between the President's words and his deeds.

Making Room in the Inn

A friend who shared this story described it as "the best sermon" my dear friend and mentor Bill Coffin (Rev. William Sloane Coffin, Jr.) "never preached." It was Christmas Eve and the pews at New York City's Riverside Church were packed. The Christmas pageant was underway and had come to the point where the innkeeper was to turn away Mary and Joseph with the resounding line, "There's no room at the inn!"

Never mind that no figure of the innkeeper actually appears in scripture. We've all imagined him delivering the message of no room, of inhospitality to the baby Jesus and His parents. And it seemed the perfect part for Tim, an earnest youth of the congregation with Down Syndrome. He had only one line to remember. "There's no room at the inn!" He had practiced it again and again with his parents and with the pageant director. He seemed to have mastered it.

So there he stood at the altar of the sanctuary, his bathrobe costume firmly belted over his broad stomach, as Mary and Joseph made their way down the center aisle. They approached him, said their lines as rehearsed, and waited for his reply. Tim's parents, the pageant director, and the whole congregation almost leaned forward as if willing him to remember his line.

"There's no room at the inn!" Tim boomed out, just as rehearsed. But then, as Mary and Joseph turned on cue to travel further, Tim suddenly yelled, "Wait!" They turned back, startled, and looked at him in surprise.

"You can stay at my house!" he called.

Well, Tim had effectively preached the sermon at Riverside Church that Christmas Eve. Bill Coffin strode to the pulpit, said "Amen," and sat down. It was the best sermon he never preached.

When, oh when will we as a nation stop saying to our children, "There's no room at the inn"? When will we, like Tim, start saying, "You can stay at my house"? When will we say to poor, hungry, and homeless children, "Wait! We'll make a place for you at America's table of plenty"? When we will say to sick and uninsured children, "We won't turn you away from the doctor"? How long until we say to children whose parents are working hard every day trying to keep food on the table and a roof over their heads but are still poor, "We will help you escape poverty"? When will we say to the seven million children who are home alone or on the streets after school, "We'll make a safe place for you with caring adults in after-school programs"? When will we say to the child of laid-off working parents who can't pay the rent and afford enough food, "We'll catch you in our safety net until your family is able to provide for you again"? When will we say to the millions of children whose parents need affordable, quality child care that there is room enough in a Head Start or child care center in their community?

It's time to bring the baby out of the barn and into America's inn. In this holy season for many faiths, Christians are again telling the story of Jesus' birth and the miracle we believe in of God coming to live among us as a child—a child who cried and laughed, who loved and learned, who was born as a vulnerable baby. How do we recognize the Christ child in every child today -- especially those who are poor?

I hope we can recognize and honor the Christ child today by reaching out and sharing our personal gifts of time and money and service with the needy. But I also hope we can honor Him by raising a mighty voice for justice and protection for all the children left behind in poverty and hopelessness. Jesus Christ challenged the cultural and political priorities of His time and stood up for the poor, the weak, and the vulnerable. So must we today at a time when America's values are under attack by terrorists from without and by neglect from within. In this holy season, let all of us repent and reaffirm our commitment to building a nation where all children find room in our inn.

• God, forgive our rich nation where small babies die of cold quite legally.

• God, forgive our rich nation where small children suffer from hunger quite legally.

• God, forgive our rich nation where toddlers and schoolchildren die from guns sold quite legally.

• God, forgive our rich nation that lets children be the poorest group of citizens quite legally.

• God, forgive our rich nation that lets the rich continue to get more at the expense of the poor quite legally.

• God, forgive our rich nation that thinks security rests in missiles rather than in mothers, and in bombs rather than in babies.

• God, forgive our rich nation for not giving you sufficient thanks by giving to others their daily bread.

• God, help us never to confuse what is quite legal with what is just and right in Your sight.

Let us determine to do what is just and right in God's sight for all the children in America and the world.

Marian Wright Edelman is President and Founder of the Children's Defense Fund and its Action Council whose mission is to Leave No Child Behind® and to ensure every child a Healthy Start, a Head Start, a Fair Start, a Safe Start, and a Moral Start in life and successful passage to adulthood with the help of caring families and communities.

A striking déjà vu experience occurred in 1989 when my sister Joselyn gave me Yogi books elaborating on ancient African philosophy. While reading each book, I sensed such familiarity with this totally unfamiliar subject as to "know" before hand what would come on the next page. Also, in comparing those Afrocentric mystic principles with the principles contained in my writings of the prior 15 years, there was an amazing resemblance. Could it be that my ancient African ancestors had transmitted messages directly to me for help in shaping my "worth" oriented system of values -- values related to love, goodness, truth, beauty, harmony, and unity? Closely related are your déjà vu experiences in hearing wise advice from your mother during trials and tribulations -- and when she is nowhere around. To further explore this fascinating déjà vu subject, let us assume to be true the following ancient African beliefs about its three components -- the sender, the transmitter, and the receiver.

The original senders of Afrocentric messages were mystically oriented indigenous ancient Africans who fashioned a sublime system of "worth" values. This was based on believing they were made in God's image, were all spiritually related, and were obligated to show good character fellowship behaviors by being of service to those in need. In each African village these beliefs and practices were "group determined" and "group enforced" and thereby formed a "collective group mind." This means each individual was constantly sending forth spiritual thoughts almost identical to fellow members of the village. Furthermore, those collective thoughts were also of a "like-kind" with the "group mind" thoughts of villagers across the African continent, despite the variations in the way each group of villagers lived. As a result, there was a continent wide African collective good character "group mind" that vibrated it the same high rate as that in the Sublime plane. An analogy is the group prayers for the spiritual healing of physical ailments Black people use to penetrate into the realm of higher powers. In other words, ancient Africans' mystical values and traits of good character took the form of a collective group "thought cloud." Then the "thought cloud" of mystic memories transcended the upper boundaries of the human mind to settle in the Sublime as a mystic memory satellite. Being above time and space, signals out of that Sublime memory satellite could be sent to any Afrocentric person anywhere in the world and into any age period (e.g. today's Black Americans). Such a process is sort of like television stations generating enough power to transmit signals to a satellite in outer space so as to relay those signals into individual home television sets.

Afrocentric Mystic Memory

The only requirement of the receiver of the satellite Afrocentric mystic memory was to either make a mental demand for its wise message or to simply listen for it without interference. Amazingly, recent studies have shown a déjà vu "center" and a God module (concerned with spirituality, prayer, and religious experiences) -- both located in the temporal lobe of the brain. Could it be that the God module is the receiver of the Afrocentric mystic memory message? If so, the good character system of values generated by ancient Africans can be a direct transmission to all "tuned in" Black people. Perhaps when we are faced with a situation of having to do something but have no idea what to do, the close relationship of the God module with the déjà vu "center" explains how we might receive an "intuition" for doing the "right and decent thing." For this sender-transmitter-receiver theory, (see "Fourteen Lessons in Yogi Philosophy p. 77 to 87) ancient Africans themselves called it "the sympathy of all things." They urged all village youth to study and master the collective memory that lives in one's bones so as to carry out one's life purpose for the health and wholeness of the individual and the group villagers.

color when they were promoted to the command staff and people hoped that this changing of the guard meant better days were ahead.

Earlier this year, the city had taken a step backward by deciding to settle a case filed by six disgruntled white sergeants who were upset at former chief Jerry Carroll's decision to promote two men of color, Alex Tortes and Ron Orrantia, and a White woman, Meredyth Meredith to the rank of lieutenant in 1999. As a result, several of the sergeants were promoted, others retroactively promoted and financial settlements were given out as well while the three qualified officers promoted by Carroll were slapped in the face. In contrast, the city had aggressively used everything in its legal arsenal to get the U.S. District Court to toss out racial discrimination and harassment lawsuits filed by a group of Black city employees seven years ago, as well as a lawsuit filed by a Black police officer in Riverside County Superior court in 2000.

The community always watches closely how the city and its police department treat their own minority employees because if they can not treat them fairly and with a just heart, then there is little hope that these entities will do right for the same communities.

The city went a step further in extending its generosity to several other white employees, an action that slapped the faces of many who had worked hard to bring justice after Miller's death.

In what it called an attempt at words, individuals on both sides of the police divide have to understand that they will not always agree with nor understand one another. Tolerance is the key to maintaining peace when comprehension is not a viable option.

bringing closure, the city council awarded physical disability retirements to three of the officers who killed Miller, even though all of them had initially claimed that the injuries they suffered were psychological, not physical. The community galvanized quickly to show the city that rather than healing wounds, they were ripping one wide open.

People packed the city council chambers several weeks straight urging the council to appeal a Riverside County Superior Court judge's decision to reinstate Wayne Stewart back onto the force. They cheered the council's decision to do just that and trusted the city to keep its word. However, less than two months later, the council had a change of heart during a meeting held behind closed doors and rewarded Stewart for his patience and his services by paying him $100,000 and half of his salary tax-free for the rest of his life.

The city also awarded former officer Michael Alagna with $50,000 and half of his salary and allowed Gregory Preece to receive a sergeant's retirement even though an arbitrator had recommended demoting him as part of his discipline for his role in the Miller killing.

Mayor Ron Loveridge then expressed to a local newspaper that it was time to make decisions about the fates of the remaining two officers, Paul Bugar and Daniel Hotard. By next month, there may be enough city council members interested in settling with them, if Art Gage, Paul Fick and Steve Adams win their runoff elections. All three candidates are financially backed by the Riverside Police Officers

Still, sheriff department public information officer Shelly Kennedy-Smith said that it is

Officer. He has worked with Association, which contributed nearly $30,000 into their campaigns. If elected, they join Frank Schiavone and Ed Adkison who are also heavily backed by the RPOA and together, would constitute a majority of the council.

The fate of the Community Police Review Commission in the face of a changing city council also concerns many people. What if a city council heavily backed by the RPOA decided to close another chapter in Riverside history by closing the book on its only form of civilian oversight? At least one candidate, Fick, said publicly that he did not envision the commission as a permanent fixture.

So, the future remains unsure, unwritten and up to all of us. With any meaningful progress, there are always two steps forward, one back, but it is still vital to keep moving ahead. It's not a journey for the faint of heart, or the impatient but for people who are committed to achieving necessary change over the long haul no matter what happens, by keeping these agencies accountable by keeping their feet to the fire. To build a better future, one where the lives and safety of all people are valued by those sworn to protect and serve them. A world where jokes and references to people of color as nonhuman, along with celebrations of their killings are put permanently to rest. And most importantly, a department that would roundly condemn the actions of those officers who killed Miller rather than uphold them as heroes or martyrs of a bygone era. That day is still a long time coming.

Only then can the final chapter of this tragedy finally be closed.

important that the community understands "what we're doing and why we're doing it."

elementary, middle and high schools in the city of Coachella. He deals with seven different schools in the Coachella area. Officer Quintero's function as a School Resource Officer is dealing with criminal behavior of the youth. He also deals with domestic violence situations as an officer.

According to Deputy Quintero, the Crime Trend Increase is as a result of the unfortunate availability of drugs. It is very easy for young adults to get drugs from their peers and also their family and friends.

The most memorable experience for Deputy Quintero was when he was called on a domestic violence case. The lady's husband was abusing her and she had him arrested. After this incident, the wife got a restraining order placed against the husband. The wife was so appreciative for what Officer Quintero had done, she gave him a medalion, which he keeps close by as a memento of the difference he made in her life.

Deputy Quintero's most unusual experience was when he encountered a traffic collision where a teenager ran a stop sign and the passenger, who was his younger brother, was killed. That was even tougher for Deputy Quintero because the driver was a student from one of his schools.

Deputy Joe Quintero looks forward to changing the lives of youth until he retires.

Doyle also hopes to gain ground via community policing whereby his deputies are looked at as equal members of the community just like a teacher or a preacher. The sheriff referred to this as returning to the practice of the "beat cop, [of] cultivating relationships via interaction" with the people in the neighborhood. This is important to the sheriff's department for more than just good public relations. When the cop on the beat has developed "that relationship, in times of crisis that becomes critical" because the person in need of help will feel more comfortable coming to "officer friendly" beat cop versus some stranger with a gun that he/she has never met before.

For Doyle, it is all about how community members "help each other."

Kennedy-Smith added that the goal was to secure an "updated, current perception for our personnel" in the community.

The bottom line for the Sheriff's department is making sure that every resident of Riverside County can enjoy their lives in one of America's fastest growing communities without having to worry about their safety. The goal is, according to Kennedy-Smith, to "keep, maintain, promote peace."

Lula Washington Dance Theatre Kwanzaa Celebration

LOS ANGELES

Come celebrate! The Lula Washington Dance Theatre (LWDT) presents its 7th Annual Kwanzaa Celebration concert, an evening of dance, gospel music, jazz, African drumming and poetry with special guest choreographer Malang Bayo of Senegal working with 75 children from the Lula Washington Youth Dance Ensemble. This electrifying fusion of culture and rejuvenation will take place at the Luckman Fine Arts Complex, Cal State L.A. (5151 State University Drive) on Monday, December 29 at 8:00 p.m.

This holiday extravaganza will pull together the nationally acclaimed Lula Washington Dance Theatre, along with a barrage of actors, singers, poets, drummers and other musicians. The concert will bring an eventful close to LWDT's 23rd year of consistent dance training and performances in Los Angeles. The Kwanzaa Celebration, a 7-year-old Luckman holiday tradition, is an LWDT staple that showcases the ensemble's continuing excellence and provides an introduction to its creative direction for the upcoming season. "This event is a great introduction to the breadth and honesty of this diverse and highly regarded dance company," said Dr. Clifford Harper, executive director of the Luckman Fine Arts Complex.

LWDT is known nationally for theatrical, entertaining, and energetic works that are accessible to all audiences. "Our Kwanzaa Celebration is inspired by authentic African culture. It is meant to portray a feeling of community and reflect movement in a non-traditional way that captures the spirit of the people," says Lula Washington, founder and artistic director. "This performance is perfect for the entire family, because Kwanzaa is really about the children – the "first fruits" of our culture."

As part of the Kwanzaa repertory the company will perform an audience favorite entitled Harambe, a suite that features traditional African dances and songs focused on the seven principles of Kwanzaa. In accord with the principle of giving knowledge as a gift instead of material possessions, the Young Drummers of Los Angeles, directed by Marcus L. Miller, will present a special lesson on early African American musical history. This piece, "The Little Drummer Boy," traces the history of the cadence best associated with New Orleans jazz all the way back to the Civil War when African-American soldiers pioneered this well loved and culturally-revered form of drumming. Also, Malang Bayo, the son of a royal family in Senegal, will set a new, authentic Senegalese work on Lula Washington's Youth Dance Ensemble. Some 75 children will dance in the work.

This year's Kwanzaa celebration comes shortly after LWDT gave six riveting performances at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, DC. Although LWDT tours extensively each year, it always comes home to celebrate its blessings at Kwanzaa time. This year, LWDT is celebrating its recent acquisition of a new dance studio home that it plans to open in January at 3773-75 S. Crenshaw Blvd. Fundraising is underway to complete renovation of the new site.

ESSENCE MAGAZINE ANNOUNCES MEDIA SPONSORSHIP OF THE 2004 SUPER BOWL GOSPEL CELEBRATION

ATLANTA, GA

ESSENCE magazine, the leading lifestyle magazine for eight million African-American women, has signed on as a presenting media sponsor of the 2004 Super Bowl Gospel Celebration (SBGC). A part of the NFL Concert Series during Super Bowl Weekend, SBGC will be held on Friday, January 30, 2004 at 8:00 p.m. at the Reliant Arena in Houston, TX, host city of the XXXVIII Super Bowl.

In its sixth year, SBGC has drawn thousands and has proven to be one of the most attended events during Super Bowl Weekend. Each year, guests are entertained by gospel's top artists and hear inspirational messages from some of the NFL's key players. The concert has featured gospel greats Kirk Franklin, Yolanda Adams, Donnie McClurkin, Fred Hammond and Jaci Velasquez along with NFL greats Cris Carter, Curtis Martin, Kurt Warner, Troy Vincent, Qadry Ismail and Deion Sanders.

This year's line-up will again feature key gospel acts Donnie McClurkin, Yolanda Adams, John P. Kee, Dorinda Clark Cole, Mary Mary, a host of NFL players and the soulful Patti LaBelle and a SURPRISE

GUEST with roots in gospel.

"We are thrilled to join efforts with The Super Bowl Gospel Celebration team," said Michelle Ebanks, Group Publisher of Essence Communications Partners. "For 33 years, ESSENCE has been at the forefront of showcasing Gospel music, highlighting its successful progression through the pages of the magazine, the Essence Music Festival and the Essence Awards. SBGC has developed an event on a platform that extends the universal appeal of Gospel music, which makes this partnership a natural fit."

In addition to its onsite presence, ESSENCE will provide promotional support, including print and Internet. ESSENCE is also offering a 50% discount on magazine subscriptions. This special discount opportunity is available by visiting www.superbowlgospelcelebration.com, the official website for the event.

"We are excited about our partnership with ESSENCE magazine, says Melanie Few, president of Results Inc. and event creator. "ESSENCE brings The Super Bowl Gospel Celebration a powerful national partner and takes the event into the lives of millions of women and families internationally. We believe this is the beginning of a lasting partnership and great opportunities for SBGC."

SBGC evolved from NFL players wanting an inspirational-type event during Super Bowl Weekend. It is the first and only gospel concert officially sanctioned by the NFL for Super Bowl Weekend. The event is designed to allow the Super Bowl host city to experience the star-studded weekend with a star-studded family-oriented event.

In addition to an exciting show, event attendees also have a chance to win two tickets to Super Bowl XXXVIII. The winner will be announced during the concert. Also, a FREE pre-show concert is scheduled that will feature some of Houston's finest gospel and contemporary Christian artists.

The free pre-show will begin at 6:30 p.m. outside of the arena. The main event will begin at 8:00 p.m. Tickets will be available at Ticket Masters locations in Houston and the Reliant Arena beginning mid-December (a nonrefundable service fee will apply). A portion of the proceeds will benefit Project WAVE, a Houston-based, non-profit HIV/AIDS awareness foundation.

ESSENCE magazine is the preeminent lifestyle magazine for African-American women. For 33-years, the magazine has delivered cutting-edge information on careers, money, health, parenting, fashion and beauty to more than eight million readers. ESSENCE is more than a magazine. It's parent company, Essence Communications Partners (ECP) produces The Essence Awards, a primetime network television special designed to salute the achievements of African-Americans; the Essence Music Festival, the magazine's three-day multigenerational celebration of music, culture and heritage which debuted on broadcast television in September for the first time in its nine-year history; essence.com; Essence Books; and the ECP Licensing Division, which markets Essence Eyewear and Hosiery.

Saving Energy.
It's a way of life.

Fall is a great time to make some energy- and money-saving changes around your home. For example, ENERGY STAR® qualified compact fluorescent light bulbs use 75% less energy and will last up to 10 times longer than conventional bulbs. Also check out other energy efficient products (like programmable thermostats, ceiling fans, and home sealing products) and appliances (like clothes washers and dishwashers). These stores offer helpful tips on making your home energy smart. You'll save money on energy costs, and you'll be doing our environment a favor as well.

For some great s on saving energy and  this fall, visit any of the stores listed below.

Retailers featured as Flex Your Power partners have agreed to conduct ENERGY STAR qualified product training for their sales associates and to promote consumer energy efficiency awareness. For more information, visit www.fypower.com.

Sabrina Collins Say's "Face Your Body" with all Natural Line of Homemade Products

The Black Voice News

To see Sabrina Collins, one would imagine her a recent transplant from some exotic island. Her glowing dreadlocks, glistening skin and sensual scent belie any indication of aging, children or city living. As the creator of "Face Your Body Aromatherapy -- Healing for the Mind, Body, Spirit" her aura sells and tells it all. A woman embodied with magic, her all natural line of body products are enchanted jewels of joy. Black sugar scrubs, seaweed baths, body butters and bath balls are just the tip of the iceberg in a line of products that promote overall healing.

Collins has been in the proverbial kitchen concocting potions since she was 12 years old. Her first successful remedy was a combination of oatmeal, comfrey, honey and her mother's Nature's Gate conditioner. The winning preparation cured her teenage acne and made her a neighborhood wonder!

"I'm blessed to come from a long line of creative women," explains Collins. "My maternal grandmother was a Cherokee Indian who was always in the kitchen, while my paternal grandmother was from 'The Carolinas.' My mother was a hippie-leaning art school grad who made all our clothes while we were growing up. Creating is in my blood."

And create she does. The "Face Your Body" product line includes Paradise bath balls made from Dead Sea salts, essential oils and lavender; a seaweed bath treated in lavender, rosemary and frankincense and body butters that combine various mixtures of shea butter, aloe vera butter, oils and fruit essences. Vegan soaps, sugar scrubs (black and brown), foaming baths, salts, gels and clays are all available for physical, mental and spiritual respite. Each product includes a poem or positive mantra, penned by Collins. "Women have always been the healers of the planet. My products are simply the follow through on a long line of the tradition of women who have utilized the kitchen as their personal laboratories for healing. In today's crazy world, so many of us don't have the time it takes to do it for ourselves. I'm blessed to be able to spread the magic that Mother Nature so unselfishly shares with us," expresses Collins

Spencer for Hire

A Handshake

Remember when your word and a handshake was all it took? That was all 'you needed to trust an individual and be assured that a job would be completed to your satisfaction. No contracts, no agreements, no doubting of character or intentions. Your word was your bond and a promise that would not be broken. Boy, have times changed. Now everything has to be in writing and notarized because we have been trained to trust no one. Not our kids, friends, family, associates or ourselves sometimes. Unfortunately, many out there cannot be trusted and it's incredibly difficult to let your guard down again once you've been deceived.

A friend of mine is in a situation we all can probably identify with at some point in our lives. Here's the scenario: She's studying to be a REALTOR and wanted some hands-on experience. She approached a local REALTOR and asked if she would be willing to mentor her in exchange for leads she had and free assistance work (run errands, type, file paperwork, etc). The REALTOR fully agreed and the partnership was in full swing. To consummate the team, my friend gave the REALTOR a listing on the condition that they would split the commission 50/50. The REALTOR would teach, she would learn and everyone would be happy...or so we thought.

The REALTOR took the listing, sold the home and was paid a commission of approximately $9,000.00. She did not mentor or split the money with my friend. After several weeks of trying to track her down, the REALTOR claimed she GAVE the entire commission to the buyer's of the home to help them with the closing cost (extremely unusual in this industry).

My friend shook the REALTOR'S hand and took her word that she would honor their verbal agreement. That should have been it.

Has our society become so callous and distrustful that it requires a legal document to get a person to keep their word? Have we forgotten to consider the other person when we make choices on the freeway like speeding up to prevent the other car in the next lane from merging into ours? What about when we hit our high beams at the car in front of us because we think they are going too slow for our liking? How many of us have made that person behind us at the grocery store with one or two items wait behind our full cart and us. Where has the common decency towards our fellow man gone? Why the drama? Why do we care more about what is happening to the people on the "REALITY TV shows" than we do for our next-door neighbor?

My friend is a single mom and she wasn't planning an elaborate Christmas with that money or even buying that latest outfit, she going to put it in a savings account to start saving for a house, something she could leave to her three kids. Instead of her being angry she prayed about it, vented to me and then made this simple statement. "Maybe she needed the money more than I did, I wish the REALTOR the best". Wow, she let go and let GOD. This new year, make an effort to be kind and courteous. Please, thank you, hello and excuse me are still wonderful words that people love to hear. It will bring peace in your homes and in our community. As for the unscrupulous REALTOR: Some may think they can get over on others, but GOD protects his flock and has the last word. Happy Holidays. See you next week.

Warner Home Video Commemorates Black History Month with Urban Classic

PLUS A TRIO OF FILMS BY SIDNEY POITIER STARRING BILL COSBY

The Black Voice News

BURBANK

Warner Home Video celebrates Black History Month with four classics by African-American filmmakers Gordon Parks, Jr. and Sidney Poitier. Remastered with all-new digital transfers, SUPER FLY, UPTOWN SATURDAY NIGHT, LET'S DO IT AGAIN and A PIECE OF THE ACTION feature the combined artistry of screen legends Bill Cosby, Harry Belafonte, Richard Pryor, Ossie Davis, James Earl Jones and Ron O'Neal. Each DVD, highlighted by super special features, will premiere on January 13 for a collectible $19.97 SRP.

One of the most recognized films of the 1970s Black cinema movement, SUPER FLY (1972), stars Ron O'Neal as a hustler who becomes disenchanted with street life, and plans one last score before quitting "the game." Director Gordon Parks Jr.'s debut film is lushly scored by the late great Curtis Mayfield.

The premiere DVD edition of SUPER FLY features a new documentary, Last Deal: A Retrospective, including interviews with cast and producers, as well as expert commentary by USC School of Cinema and Television professor Todd Boyd. The disc also boasts several archival featurettes, including Ron O'Neal on The Making of Super Fly, Curtis Mayfield on Super

Fly, and Behind the Threads, in which costume designer Nate

In the 1970's, boundary breaking Academy Award®-winner Sidney

Poitier focused his talents on directing an entertaining string of broad comedies with collaborator Bill Cosby. Poitier starred in his directorial debut, UPTOWN SATURDAY NIGHT (1974), alongside Cosby and Harry Belafonte in a story about two small-time hustlers who scour the city to retrieve their stolen lottery ticket. In LET'S DO IT AGAIN (1975), Poitier and Cosby portray buddies who rig a boxing match to raise money for their lodge. The third Poitier/Cosby comedy, A PIECE OF THE ACTION (1977), follows two con artists who are blackmailed into helping a community center with hilarious and heartwarming results.

The premiere DVD editions of UPTOWN SATURDAY NIGHT and A PIECE OF THE ACTION feature commentaries by Dr. Todd Boyd. A PIECE OF THE ACTION

also includes a bonus retrospective, Dynamite Duo, with candid interviews from cast members James Earl Jones, Jimmie Walker, Julius Harris, Denise Nicholas and John Amos. The debut disc for LET'S DO IT AGAIN is highlighted by commentary from screenwriter Richard Wesley and New York Press film critic, Armond White.

With operations in 82 international territories Warner Home Video, a Warner Bros. Entertainment Company, commands the largest distribution infrastructure in the global video marketplace. Warner Home Video's film library is the largest of any studio, offering top quality new and vintage titles from the repertoires of Warner Bros. Pictures, Turner Entertainment, Castle Rock Entertainment, HBO Home Video and New Line Home Entertainment.

Former UC Riverside Staffer to Read Stories of India at the Library's Author Series

RIVERSIDE

Iqbal Pittalwala, a former campus communications officer at the University of California, Riverside, will read from his collection of short stories Dear Paramount Pictures and answer questions from 3:15 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., Wednesday Jan. 21, 2004. It is the fourth talk of the 2003-04 UCR Libraries' Author Series and will be Web cast live from the fourth floor of the Tomás Rivera Library, 900 University Ave., Riverside. To view the live Web cast of Pittalwala's talk, and to view previous talks, visit <http://library.ucr.edu/?l=news&click=1&article=134> or <http://library.ucr.edu/?l=news&article=134>.

Jan 11, 1:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m., The Riverside Dickens Festival, the Riverside Library and the Friends of the Library are sponsoring four book discussion sessions at the Riverside Central Library, 3581 Mission Inn Avenue in downtown Riverside.

UCR Libraries' Author Series, call Special Collections at 909-787-3233 or e-mail Melissa Conway, the head of Special Collections, at melissa.conway@ucr.edu.

Pittalwala, a campus communications officer for science and engineering at UC Riverside until October 2003, is now the assistant director of media relations for science and technology at UC Irvine. Southern Methodist University published his book of short stories Dear Paramount Pictures in September 2002. In addition to a Ph.D. in atmospheric sciences, Pittalwala holds an M.F.A. in creative writing from the Iowa Writers' Workshop, the University of Iowa. His stories have appeared in the Seattle Review, Blue Mesa Review, Confrontation, TriKone, and other magazines. He teaches a writing and critiquing workshop in fiction at the UC Riverside Extension Center.

The monthly Author Series, which began in September 2002, brings the riches of the campus libraries to the community. According to organizer Melissa Conway, who heads UC Riverside's Special Collections, the authors are all affiliated with UC Riverside. All UC Riverside Libraries' Author Series events are free and open to the public.

Parking on campus is $6 per vehicle for the day or may be purchased for shorter periods at $2 per hour. Parking permits are available at the information kiosks near the University Avenue and the Canyon Crest Drive and Martin Luther King Jr. Boulevard entrances.

Registration will be handled by Professor Purkart, (909) 788-7008.

Brotherhood Crusade Donates Funds to Support Striking Grocery Workers

The Black Voice News

Last week the Brotherhood Crusade took the lead in presenting a check to L. A. County Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO in support of the striking grocery workers. Danny J. Bakewell, Sr., President of the Brotherhood Crusade presented the check on behalf of the community to Steven Neal, Director of the County Federation of Labor.

Alan Lee, President of AFSCME introduced Danny Bakewell who expressed the Brotherhood's unequivocal support and solidarity with the rank-and-file union members by stating, "The Brotherhood Crusade is here to support the union and we are with you in your fight for decent wages and affordable, quality health care.

Then Alan Lee, along with Joy Brown-Price, Executive Director of African American Community & Labor Leaders Alliance, and Karen Ramey from Communications Workers of America AFL-CIO presented checks to Steven Neal. Also in attendance from various unions were Janett Humphries, President of SEIU Local 99; James Kidd of SEIU Local 99 and A.P.R.I.; Richard S. Cowan and Cheryl Butler of UFCW; Charles A. Williams, President of National Association of Postal Supervisors; Chester L. Allbritton, Local 303 President of National Postal Mail Handlers Union; Rosetta Saunders, Loaned Executive of the Combined Federal Campaign; Deputy Mayors of Los Angeles, Eric Brown and Brian K. Williams; and Cynthia M. Willard, Assistant Executive Director of Institute for Black Parenting.

In jest, Bakewell related his long-standing friendship with Cynthia Willard and that they attended grade school together.

Then on a serious note Cynthia Willard gave a moving tribute by relating how almost fifteen years ago the Brotherhood Crusade literally breathed life into the then struggling Institute for Black Parenting with a $5,000.00 grant.

She said, "It was at a time when $5,000.00 was worth a whole lot more than it is today, and because of that grant, the institute now has three locations here: one in Inglewood, one in Carson, and one in Riverside. Also one has just been opened in New Orleans, Louisiana."

After the presentations, the Brotherhood provided food for all of the guests in the spirit of the holiday season.

Palo Verde and CSUSB Sign Dual Admissions Agreement

The Black Voice News
PALM DESERT

A new dual admissions agreement between Palo Verde Community College and California State University, San Bernardino will allow students to be admitted to both colleges at the same time. The agreement is the first of its kind between these institutions of higher education and was officially approved by the Palo Verde College Board of Trustees for a period of three years. The formal announcement of the partnership was made Friday, Dec. 19, at Cal State San Bernardino's satellite Palm Desert Campus, where CSUSB President Albert Karnig and PVC President James W. Hattois unveiled the details.

Officials from Palo Verde College and Cal State San Bernardino are optimistic that it will increase the transfer rate of college going students, especially those who will be attending CSUSB's Palm Desert Campus. "I am excited about the potential this agreement presents for current and future Palo Verde College students," said Hattois. "We view this agreement as providing the incentive and opportunity for students in our district to continue their education beyond the high school and community college level."

"We hope this agreement encourages Palo Verde College students to continue their education at Cal State San Bernardino and specifically our Palm Desert Campus, which is the closest university campus to the Blythe area," said Karnig. "We anticipate this will increase the transfer rate of Palo Verde students to CSUSB and increase their completion rate once they get to our campus."

"Dual admissions agreements are one of a number of new initiatives between the California State University and California's community college system designed to strengthen and build upon existing articulation efforts," said Robert McGowan, CSUSB associate vice president for enrollment services.

The goals of the agreement are to increase the transfer rate from Palo Verde to CSUSB, increase the completion rate of Palo Verde students once they enroll at the university, strengthen articulation efforts and coordinate course work between the two colleges.

Students who enter into the dual admission agreement will be required to complete 60 semester credits while maintaining a minimum 2.0 grade point average at Palo Verde College. Applicants will be required to attend seminars that are held each semester and meet with college counseling staff to set goals and complete university admission requirements. A unique portion of the agreement entitles the students to additional services at Cal State San Bernardino, including library access and the opportunity to cross-enroll without paying instructional fees.

The program will be evaluated for effectiveness on an annual basis. Following the three-year term of the agreement, PVC and CSUSB have the option to renew the agreement.

For more information, contact Hortensia DeLeon at PVC at (760) 921-5502, or the PVC public information office at (760)

921-5465; or call CSUSB's office of admissions and student recruitment at (909) 880-5188, the university's public affairs office at (909) 880-5007.
